CARD OF THANKS

Mr. J. A. Carruthers and family desire to give thanks for kindly assistance during the illness of the late Mrs. Carruthers, also for aid and sympathy extended at the time of their bereavement. For floral tributes at the funeral, and for condolence evinced by the community by attendance at the last sad services, gratitude is also tendered.

ITEMS PICKED UP AROUND THE CLUB

The fight has been the topic of conversation during the last week, and the promoters have received congratulations on every hand on the excellence of the card. The attendance was a slight improvement on the last two fights, but is not yet anything like it should be.

Only one thing we would like to mention in passing that the army of "knockers" should ascertain the facts concerning the fights and other matters before picking up their "hammers." They might want to change to "horns."

Well, we have been writing of hockey quite a lot lately, and the latest news is that the Elks and the Vets may get together on this important matter in the very near future—may the outcome be all we hope it will be.

The only period in a woman's life, when she gives any thought to dress is between the cradle and the grave. The boys at the Club are putting on a "smoker" in the very future, and if any of you know any good local talent get them on the program without delay. We know lots ourselves, but it is hard to catch them when they are feeling musical.

The General was inspecting the battalion and came to a man with a large medal on his chest. He stopped and asked the man what campaign he earned this beautiful decoration in. "No campaign at all," answered the man, "our cow won this at the Lomond fair."

We had quite a few visitors from Queenstown at the fight, and were delighted with everything.

"Wee" Brown was a visitor in town for the fight. Johnnie is getting along all right in the oil town, but just had to see Scotty Inkster in action and lose the odd dollar doing it.

The Father—"How is it, sir, that I find you kissing my daughter? How is it, sir?" The Nut—"Great, great."

And what about the local musician who, after practicing continually for the dance, could not perform. Oh, well nuf sed.

The genial Paddy O'Brien says he has a lot of new jokes and songs that he will spring at our next smoker. Well, we sure will want Paddy—that is early in the evening.

The person whom you think dead from the neck up is perhaps merely suffering from halitosis.

LOCAL LADY'S FUNERAL IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Vulcan people and many others on Sunday afternoon paid tribute to the memory of a deceased citizen by attending in exceptional numbers the funeral of the late Mrs. Carruthers, and the contribution of flowers in great profusion expressed in beauty the high esteem of many friends, and the sentiment of a community that recognizes the loss of one who has been for many years a useful resident. Services at the United Church and burial park, conducted by Rev. J. N. Brunton, were expressive and impressive, and music by the choir and a solo by Mrs. White at the church were particularly appropriate and well rendered. The pall bearers were A. J. Flood, S. B. Brown, Ed. Carruthers, Frank Shaw, T. T. Carruthers and D. J. Robinson.

The passing of Mrs. Carruthers took place on the evening of Thursday, September 19th and followed an illness of some considerable time. Deceased, whose maiden name was Ethel May Swan, was 48 years of age, and was born at West New Annapolis, Colchester County, Nova Scotia, and in the same country was married in 1900 to John A. Carruthers. They came to the Vulcan district in 1904, homesteaded a farm just west of Vulcan, where they resided until three or more years ago, when they came into town. Besides the father, in the family there are two sons and two daughters, all resident in Vulcan, and they are Russell Carruthers, Lester Carruthers, Mrs. Russell Robinson, and Mrs. Harold McDonald. There are three grandchildren. Mrs. Ole Hanson and Mrs. George Seaman, also of Vulcan, are sisters of deceased, and two brothers and one sister, Robert Swan and David Swan and Mrs. Walter Twiss, reside in Massachusetts, and another brother, Albert Swan, is in the old home district in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Carruthers possessed and exercised the qualities of a good wife and mother, pursued a life of even tenor, and commanded the admiration and favor of neighbors. She gave support to community efforts as they were presented in the pioneer days and in the changing years since, and until the appointment of a successor but a short time ago was the honored president of the Vulcan branch of the Women's Institute.

Reid Hill School Fair Voted Great Success

Over One Thousand Entries of a High Order—Will Be Permanent Annual Event.

One of the biggest events in the history of the Reid Hill vicinity was its first school fair, held on September 19th. It was unanimously proclaimed a decided success.

Six schools sent in about one thousand entries and all were of a high standing. The art work deserves special mention. The afternoon program was opened by Mr. Benn, organizer of school fairs who gave a short talk to the parents and children, pointing out how to select and prepare their agricultural exhibits; the means and means of establishing a permanent annual school fair and that, in its first attempt, the Reid Hill school fair was the best he had attended.

Mr. D. Sullivan, the new school inspector for our district, commented on the high order of the art work and writing; he gave the teachers and pupils, points on preparing the art exhibits and drew special attention to the placing of Ireland when drawing maps of the British Isles.

The singing competition came next. Five schools entering; junior grades spelling match, recitations, twelve pupils entering; two physical drills, senior grades grades spelling match.

Elsie Sauter, age 9 won the sympathy of the audience in the spelling competition. This little girl representing grade IV, Prospect Slope school, entered both spelling contests and stayed in nearly as long as the winning pupil in grade VIII.

The physical drill by Reid Hill and Sunny Glen was greatly enjoyed and the pencil box relay race by the latter furnished much merriment for the audience.

The parade was very spectacular as each school portrayed their colors and banners. Everyone enjoyed the yells and for snap and pep they were hard to beat. An additional parade of school conveyances was staged by Sunny Glen and Reid Hill. The former had a very original chuck wagon preceded and followed by Indians on horseback, while the latter had several fine shetlands, one of which pulled a small decorated cart followed by larger saddle ponies.

The day closed with the sport program. This fair owes its success to the splendid co-operation of the teachers, parents and pupils; to the community spirit and interest and to all those who so willingly gave funds to carry on the work with.

The executive particularly wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Maher; Mrs. Dr. Almond; Mrs. Roy Walker; Mr. Errol King of Vulcan for their assistance in judging, and Mesdames A. Fitzpatrick, R.D. Lockhart for clerking, also Mrs. Wm. Meyers who so kindly entertained the judges during the noon hour.

POSEY TRIMS INKSTER IN CLEAN CUT FIGHT

Upsetting the dope usually occurs once in awhile in fistie circles but it was upset completely at the boxing card staged under the auspices of the Canadian Legion on Thursday evening last when Louis Posey of Vulcan outpointed Scotty Inkster, the fighting Highlander from Calgary. Only a select few conceded the boy from Idaho a ghost of a show with flashy Inkster and were treated to a mild surprise when Posey forced the fight right from the opening gong and displayed a ring craftiness that has since been the general topic of conversation. Inkster came with acrobatic that was convincing while Posey was an unknown product fighting his first headline bout in these parts, but he surely impressed the fans with his clean cut fighting and with a few more encounters should go a long way to being the champion in his class. Both fighters displayed aggressiveness and effectiveness which was responsible for the even battle, that was staged over the entire route. Every round was of interest and the large gallery of fans were kept at high tension all the way through. At the conclusion of the fight Inkster challenged Posey to a 10 or 15 round contest to take place at Vulcan or anywhere.

Ronnie Daines substituted for Frankie Jackson in the semi-windup and gave a good account of himself against his opponent, Billy Drain. Although this fight lacked the interest that would have been manifested had the original combatants participated, it was nevertheless highly interesting from the standpoint that neither of the fighters were inclined to be sociable and gave of their best throughout the entire encounter.

There was contrast as well as contest in the bout between Billy Patterson of Omoia and Ray Caldwell, the last named being a colored lad from the capital. It was Ray's first appearance in a real show, and in the first two rounds went "mighty well, but was clearly overtaken by Patterson in the other two and the decision went to the Lomond man. Following the engagement it was discovered that Caldwell had a bone in his hand badly broken. There is loyalty by the Lomond fans to their representative and they were there in numbers cheering and supporting.

Jimmy Cameron of Edmonton was bigger and by more than ten pounds outweighed the Kangaroo Kid, another of Barney Lynch's proteges, and their set-to was featured by the smart performance of Cameron and the gameness of the Kid. The latter took the count in the second.

Tuffy Pleasant of Vulcan and Kid Trainor of Calgary, juveniles, opened the show in a manner that certainly pleased the people. Kid had a lot of (Continued on Back Page)

A PROBLEM IN MORALS

Captain Robert Pamphlet is back in Vancouver, receiving the congratulations and condolences of his friends. He has just served two years in jail in Oregon. His case involves a neat question of morals, or etiquette, or whatever it may be called.

Four years ago Captain Pamphlet was bootlegging. In February, 1925, with a cargo of rum off the Oregon coast, he saw the steam schooner Caoba in distress. A storm was raging. Only by skilled and cautious seamanship of a high order was Pamphlet able to take off the crew of the Caoba, which proceeded to sink. Pamphlet's act saved the lives of nine men. The owners of the Caoba later presented him with a gold watch.

Unfortunately for this fine seaman a revenue cutter hove in sight, for on his errand of mercy Pamphlet had entered territorial waters. After a long chase he was overhauled and captured, his ship and cargo confiscated, and he himself sentenced to two years imprisonment.

Had Pamphlet not risked himself, his ship and his own crew, in saving the men from the Caoba, he would never have been caught. He did a brave and gallant thing—and served two years in jail as a result.

There is the problem in morals or etiquette. Let each man find the answer in his own heart.

PUBLIC SPIRITED

At Hanna, a new building was obtained for the government vendor, necessitating the removal of the stock from the old store. According to the Hanna Herald a large proportion of the male citizens of the town volunteered to make the transfer, taking their pay in goods. But the vendor had to refuse the aid.—Vegreville Observer.

An attempt is being made to combine the seventeen U. S. railroads with the Delaware and Hudson. Common sense says the bigger the mergers the better, since the public must pay for all unnecessary overhead, duplicate salaries of freight departments, waste on uneconomical routing etc.

DEBTS FORGOTTEN BY U. S.

The people of the United States are like "the man from Missouri." They must be shown. But once they are shown they are at least ready as any other people to admit their error. It is an unfortunate fact that the vast majority of the American people are unaware that their nation shares with Soviet Russia the doubtful distinction of having repudiated its debts to foreigners, declares the Toronto Globe.

The Buffalo News admits that the Globe's comments on the $400,000,000 held by British bondholders and repudiated by the southern States "is a heavy body blow." It thinks, however, that the Globe overestimated the amount. Perhaps the News has overlooked a period of from sixty to eighty years. At any rate the Buffalo paper concludes that the repudiating states should acknowledge their debts.

As the Saturday Evening Post recently pointed out, the federal government of the United States is empowered, by Act of Congress passed in 1870, to recover from repudiating states money to the value of repudiated bonds held in the federal treasury.

If the people of the United States are really desirous of doing the right thing they should accept four or five annual instalments on the British debt to the United States in the form of repudiated bonds. This is not generosity. It is merely long overdue honesty.

THE VEHICLE ACT

There appears to be some misunderstanding among owners of trucks regarding the requirements of the Public Vehicles Act, which came into effect May, 1st, 1929.

This Act provides that "No person shall operate upon a public highway outside the limits of any city, town or village, any public vehicle or any freight vehicle, without first having obtained a license from the Minister of Public Works, so to do."

A freight vehicle is defined as any motor vehicle operated by or on behalf of any person for the purpose of transporting any goods, merchandise or live stock over, upon or along any public highway.

Under the Act therefore, every owner of a freight vehicle as defined, is required to first obtain a license and owners of freight vehicles doing custom hauling, will be assessed monthly upon the basis of so much per ton-mile hauled.

Owners of freight vehicles are there fore urged to comply with these requirements immediately.

With the expenditure of 53 million a year on the returned soldiers, we gain some meaning of the long duration of the burden which war brings to a nation, even though in the circumstances we cannot but cheerfully pay for it.

BUY AT HOME AND SAVE MONEY

During the visit of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in the West we heard a great deal about Empire preference and we believe all who listened gave their whole-hearted support of every plan to help each other within this great commonwealth of Free Nations known as the British Empire. Canada is said to be a nation of its own and thus all realize that "together we stand, separated we fall." Canada should buy from Britain commodities not made in Canada and vice versa all things being equal. It is a fact that when there is any public work to be done in our town, taxpayers are anxious and willing that consideration be given local contractors and local labor. This is as it should be and we would like to see even a larger share of local labor used in all our public works.

Look at another side of the picture. In this district here are quite modern business places, catering for almost if not entirely everything that the average householder requires all the year around. We have splendid grocers, sanitary modern butcher stores, capable druggists, the best of fruiterers, up-to-date clothiers and dry good merchants, well stocked hardware stores, confectioners, shoemakers, plumbers, electricians, and all the others.

Now what do we find; are they receiving that whole-hearted community support which they have a perfect right to expect? Not by a long shot. Almost any day of the year, householders from here and the district may be seen returning home by motor bus or train, with that sickly tired pallor loaded with commodities purchased at would-be bargain counters in the city. In one such instance, questions were asked as to why buy away from home and this led to a comparison of prices between the home town merchant and the city bargain store. From a total expenditure of $18, this lady saved 25 cents; she probably paid a few street car fares or wore shoe soles, at least six hours of the day were used up; lunch or dinner would have to be purchased, and other incidentals. The day's shopping in the big city at bargain stores cost the lady a loss in cash of about 40 cents, besides a heavy strain on mind and body.

The story has its moral. Support local enterprise; help the merchant who is helping your community and incidentally to reduce your tax rate. His prices are not any higher than the city prices, in some cases they are slightly lower. He delivers your goods to your door, saves time, unnecessary travelling, wear and tear on your shoes, clothes and nerves. And above all these loyalty to your own district demands that you make your purchase at home. Just as you expect Canada to do so as a Dominion, just as you expect your Town to do likewise.

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS

An Irish priest offered twenty-five cents to the boy who could tell him who was the greatest man in history. "Christopher Columbus" answered the Italian boy. "George Washington," answered the American lad. "St. Patrick," shouted the Jewish boy. "The quarter is yours," said the priest. "But why did you say St. Patrick?" "Right down in my heart I knew it was Moses," said the Jewish boy, "but business is business."

Oil in Alberta has been traced where least expected, as witness the oil spray at Oyen. The possibilities of oil in the Province have been barely touched.

Readers will recall the scrap between Rockefeller and Col. Stewart in which the latter lost. Stewart is now on his way to England, ostensibly to join the forces of the Shell company in a British oil merger and anti-Standard oil fight. Two rival oil companies for world's oil trade. So look out for a real oil fight.

EXPRESS APPROVAL

H. R. Presbytery Approve of Refusal of Liquor License at Valley

The High River presbytery convened in Cayley on Friday. The retiring chairman, Rev. R. E. Finlay of Parkland, received hearty appreciation for his splendid year of office. Rev. A. Rennie of High River, was chosen for the coming year. Rev. R. W. Dalgleish of Claresholm, was continued as secretary. Rev. Dr. W. A. Lewis of Turner Valley and Rev. M. G. Garabedian, B.A., B.D., of Carmangay, were welcomed as new members of the presbytery.

Rev. R. E. Finlay drew to the attention of the meeting that on Friday Sept. 13, Mr. and Mrs. James Loeve of Nanton, were celebrating their golden wedding. The congratulations of the presbytery were conveyed in a signed address to these old friends of the church, on Friday evening. Rev. A. H. Rowe, B.A., of Granum, was absent through illness. His church had granted him a six weeks' holiday, and the family motored to Ontario. Recently he has undergone an operation in Toronto for inward going. He is making good recovery, but will not be able to return until the end of November.

The ministers of the presbytery completed arrangements to supply the Sunday services at Granum until such a time as Mr. Rowe may be able to return. The members of presbytery contributed one hundred dollars as an expression of friendship. Messrs. Fraser and McLean and Binnington, who have been doing summer work on the missions in the foothill area, gave very encouraging reports of the way the people have responded to the church services.

Rev. Dr. Lewis told of his work in Turner Valley. He is building a church, 48x28, with Sunday school room at the rear. He expects also to build the manse beside the church. A site has been purchased in Black Diamond for $400 as a church site.

Dr. Lewis stated that the school population has increased 200 per cent. since July. At Black Diamond the school attendance has increased from 25 to 150. Among his other duties, Dr. Lewis is also chairman of the school board. J. J. Farquhar reported the building of a manse at Brant.

Under the leadership of G. E. Mack High River, who is president of the conference laymen's association, a presbytery branch was organized, with C. E. Spencer, Parkland, as president; H. Chisholm, Aldersyde, vice-president, and W. M. Marshall, High River, secretary. Representatives were named from every charge in the presbytery, and preparations are being made for the big conference gathering in Calgary, October 29-30. The various churches have accepted the missionary and maintenance objectives, and expect to raise them in full—$9500. Dr. Endicott gave a rousing address on the missionary responsibility.

A general exchange of pulpits was arranged for the second Sunday in October for the M. and M. work.

Presbytery expressed appreciation for the attitude of the liquor commissioner in refusing thus far to allow a beer license in Turner Valley, and also hoped that the liquor control board would adhere to that policy, owing especially to the dangerous work that the men are called upon to perform.

The meeting also expressed its conviction that the leader of the Dominion government should take steps to stop the export of liquor to U.S.—the present practice being a hostile policy toward a friendly nation.

The next meeting of presbytery is called for Turner Valley in November. Rev. W. J. Kidd, Okotoks, was continued as convener of home missions committee. The following standing committees were named: Missionary and maintenance, Revs. Finlay, Peacock, G. E. Mack and W. Fisher; Education and students, Rev. A. Rennie, S. R. Hunt and M. G. Garabedian; Evangelism and social service, Rev. F. W. Ocke, J. W. Hallet, Hartwick, A. W. Kelly and J. McKinney; Pensions, Rev. J. N. Brunton, H. Johnson, J. J. Farquhar; Religious education, Rev. A. H. Rowe; Statistics, G. E. Mack; Correspondent to New Outlook, Rev. S. R. Hunt.

GIVE UP MANDATE

English Newspaper Wants Britain to Give Up Palestine Mandate

The Daily Mail in an editorial demands that Great Britain give up its mandates over territories in the middle east.

The articles, headed "Hand back the mandates or the middle east may be our ruin," declares that Britain has spent 300,000,000 pounds (about $1,500,000,000) in Palestine and Mesopotamia since the world war.

In connection with the article it is recalled that the Labor government has stated it has no intention of surrendering the Palestine mandate due to the present Jewish-Arab disorders.

"Never before have British governments persisted in such costly obstinacy of policy of complete and proved futility," the Daily Mail article says, recounting and denouncing the manner in which Britain obtained the Palestine mandate and asserting the Balfour declaration promising establishment of a national home for Jews is not fair to the Arabs.

"The idea of a national home for Jews is folly which failed," the article says. "The Jews have not gone back to their ancient land and never will. The golden opportunities of the United States are much more attractive than the prospect of patriarchal poverty in Palestine."

The article enumerates economic and political disadvantages of remaining in Palestine and Mesopotamia, and draws a parallel with the Egyptian situation. It says Italy is better situated to mandatory duties in the middle east because its people are climatically suited and under Mussolini, Italy, in many respects, is the best administered country in Europe.

This article concludes with: "Let us get away from the horrors of the middle east while there is yet time."

This bears out what Mr. Sibley of Rochester, said at a Rotary meeting here.

U. S. interests are considering the matter of establishing a horse meat cannery at Lethbridge in the near future. Besides canning horse meat they will manufacture by-products in the way of fertilizers and chicken feed with the hooves and bones of the horses.

THE NEW CHEVROLET

Two New Models are Beauties and Moderately Priced

Two new Chevrolet six-cylinder models have just been announced by the Chevrolet Motor Company of Canada. Their introduction has come at a time when Chevrolet is enjoying sales far ahead of those ever recorded by a manufacturer of six-cylinder cars; for figures just issued reveal that more than a million Chevrolets have been produced so far this year.

Chevrolet's two new models are the sport coupe and the Imperial Sedan. The former is a smart four-passenger car, complete in every detail, and yet moderately priced. The top and rear quarters of this model are solid, a roomy folding seat in the rear deck accommodates two passengers, and the rear window may be lowered to make driving more enjoyable for the whole party. The Fisher body is streamlined and finished in new Duco colors.

The Imperial sedan is also built with solid top and rear quarters Landau iron plating with sparkling chromium, give a touch of distinction to the car. A long, sweeping hood, bullet-type headlamps, chromium-plated radiator and one piece full crown fenders, as found on all Chevrolet models, add further to the appearance. The Fisher body has smart concave front pillars with rakishly moulded visor. The standard colors are black with moulding in saginaw green and striping in tusk ivory. In these as in the other Chevrolet models, is found the 46 h.p. six-cylinder Chevrolet motor, with its fuel pump, air cleaner, improved combustion chamber and other features.

ALTA CROP REPORT

Threshing is fairly general throughout the province, and grain in many cases is yielding higher than was anticipated. Threshing has been resumed in most districts after a short period of unsettled weather which delayed operations to some extent, and with continued good weather will be completed somewhat earlier than was the case last year.

From the reports received it is estimated by the Department that the average wheat yield for the province will be between eleven and twelve bushels per acre. This is as close as the estimate can be made with any degree of accuracy until further returns are received from the threshermen throughout the province. The above figures are borne out by the returns which have already come in.

According to the estimate arrived at jointly by the Department of Agriculture and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the wheat acreage in Alberta this year has been placed at 7,422,962 acres.

A very satisfactory feature of the present season's yield is the high quality of the majority of the wheat being threshed, many districts reporting a large percentage of No. 1 and No. 2. In some cases, however, the grade has been reduced by the presence of green kernels, but in very few cases is the grain below No. 3.

It is apparent from the reports that there will be a shortage of seed oats available for next year's crop in some districts in the central parts of the province, but it is believed this demand can be met satisfactorily by other sections of the province where a heavier yield of the coarse grains is being threshed.

A careful survey made by the field representatives of the Department indicates that a comparatively small amount of hay will be required as every available source has been made use of and the dry weather has permitted the cutting of hay on many sloughs which were previously flooded. The amount required will, of course, depend on the length and severity of the winter. There has been quite a demand for feed oats in the area most severely affected by the drought.

The selection of Colonel J.H. Woods editor of the Calgary Daily Herald as president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce for the season of 1929-30 is a fitting tribute to a man who has every qualification to occupy the position with credit to himself, his province and the dominion. Mr. Birks of Montreal made the announcement at Friday evening's banquet and in doing so, paid high commendation to Mr. Woods as the choice for this high honor. In reply, Mr. Woods spoke of his deep appreciation at the honor bestowed upon him and notwithstanding his various duties, he would endeavor to serve the Chamber in such a way as to justify the confidence in him. He was accorded a rousing reception—an indication of his popularity.

HER CROSS LITTLE BOY WOULDN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"My little son had poor appetite, couldn't sleep and was cross. I gave him Vinol and it ended these troubles like magic."—Mrs. L. DuCrest.

Vinol supplies the body important mineral elements of iron, calcium with cod liver peptone. This is just what thin, nervous children or adults need, and the QUICK results are surprising. The very FIRST bottle brings sound sleep and a big appetite. Vinol tastes delicious.—Errett King, Druggist, Vulcan.

OPENING SHOOT

Monday morning last ushered in the opening of the shooting season and the town was agog, starting about three o'clock, with the flashes of auto lights, leading out on all roads, after a busy early rising by the phone calls of the good natured night operator of the local telephone staff and hasty breakfasts served in some of the homes of the local enthusiasts. The various sloughs and lakes were the scenes of the great majority of the shooters as many, if not all, of the smaller haunts were dried up by the dry season and offered no game for those who formerly sought their game in these places. The morning was a beautiful one, as far as weather was concerned, but was not propitious to good duck shooting and the bags were small in consequence. Everybody got a few, from one to ten each, which was somewhat disappointing in numbers as compared with the usual opening shoot. The game taken was mostly of the local breeding but a few Mallards were shot and it is reported that a number also of real canvasbacks were brought in. There are plenty of ducks and geese in the far north and with the usual change to favorable duck weather and the flight from the north, some good shooting may be anticipated.

A new explanation of that skeleton found with its legs wrapped round its neck is that it was that of a man dressing in an upper berth.—Boston Transcript.

J. M. Clindinin a well known Calgary business man was shot and killed on Monday while duck shooting. A shot gun carried by a friend, discharged while they were scrambling down a bank to recover ducks shot by Mr. Clindinin.

Back in 1783 an expedition from St. Louis occupied old Fort Dearborn for a short time. This made Chicago belong to Spain. Sh-h! Don't tell Mayor Thompson or he'll switch from King George to Alphonso.

When Mayor Thompson of Chicago starts to rant about "George" and "America First," most Chicagoans don't know whether he is talking about King George the Fifth, Lloyd George, Henry George, or George Washington.

CANADA SHOULD HAVE FLAG OF HER OWN

In the last issue of Maclean's magazine there appeared an interesting article on "This Flag Question" from the pen of Mr. Hugh Savage, editor of the Cowichan Leader, in which he points out that Canada has no land flag distinctively her own. She has the Canadian Red Ensign, a shipping flag which may be flown with official sanction only at sea. On land there is no such Canadian emblem. There is the flag of Canada and that is the Union Jack. Some readers will protest and say, "surely that can't be right. Why all the muddle? Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, Ireland, has a flag. Haven't we a flag that we can call our own?"

We have and we haven't. We've been too busy with material affairs to attend to this flag matter, and every time it has seemed about to receive attention some influence has been sufficient to scare the politicians into inaction. And yet the Prime Minister is understood to favor a distinctive flag for Canada, while the Leader of the Opposition last year told a Calgary audience that a Canadian flag was coming.

Mr. Savage points out that at present the foreign born and foreign speaking population of Canada is at a loss to know what is the banner of their adopted land. They know the Union Jack stands for the United Kingdom, but naturally look for a distinctive emblem designating Canada and themselves as Canadians. There is, therefore, misunderstanding and use of unauthorized flags in Canada itself. A dominion flag would remove this.

Unfortunately space forbids publication in full of this very excellent article in this paper. After pointing out numerous mistakes made by artists in depicting Canada in the Great War paintings showing the Canadian soldier holding the flag of the Merchant Marine in his hands as well as the Union Jack. To distinguish Canada House at London and Canadian Embassy in Washington, official permission has been granted to fly the merchant shipping flag. Otherwise they would fly the Union Jack and be lost amid the Union Jack of London or undistinguished from that of the British at Washington.

But the people of the British Isles themselves have not found the Union Jack sufficient for all the purposes for which a flag is required by a nation in its various activities. Regiments usually have two colors, the first, or King's color, being the Union Jack. The second is the distinctive regimental color. Warships and merchantmen alike use two flags. In each case the Union Jack is one; the other is a flag in which the Union Jack has the place of honor, the top corner next the flagstaff. In neither case is the Union Jack ousted or supplanted.

The British people, with true native adaptability and in conformity with the rules of heraldry, have therefore changed, adapted and supplemented the Union Jack to suit their needs.

The further development and differentiation of the Union Jack, as proposed, will serve the need of Canada, just as the further development and differentiation of this glorious old flag is serving the need of Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundland.

Once again, this is positively not a question of abolishing the Union Jack or substituting another flag for it. The Union Jack will always be honored and flown in Canada, just as it is in the Motherland and in our sister Dominions.

Neglect to provide for and mark the growth, dignity and unity of Canada in this matter of a distinctive flag has exposed Canada and Canadians to ridicule and scorn, and has caused ill-feeling of a nature which is serious.

An admiral of a foreign power, on landing at Vancouver, is reported to have commented on the large number of customs houses the city must possess. He referred sarcastically to the wide use of the Canadian merchant-shipping flag on buildings.

Sections of the Canadian press which pooh-pooh the need for a distinctive flag presented a diametrically opposite attitude in their treatment of the news dispatches from Amsterdam during the Olympic Games.

A typical heading ran: "Canadians Are Being Unjustly Treated; Claim No Canadian Flag Could Not Properly Recognize Canuck Athletes' Victories."

Here is part of a news story from Amsterdam, August 2, 1928: "Canadian officials deeply resent the manner in which the Olympic Games have been conducted." The dispatch gives some instances and proceeds:

"One of the many instances had to do with the raising of the Canadian flag, Monday, when Percy Williams won the 100-metre race. The custom is to raise a huge flag on the centre field. Canadians grieved when the Dutch authorities were unable to produce a regulation flag. A protest was made, with the result that a regulation flag was secured and used Wednesday. It may have been possible that the Dutch did not consider Canadians would win, and therefore a Canadian flag would not be needed, but that can be hardly a satisfactory excuse." Presumably by this "Canadian" or "regulation" flag is meant the Canadian merchant-shipping flag.

Does not this incident show that the Dutch were entirely blameless? How could they be expected to know that Canadian athletes wished to be designated by a flag other than that of Canada—the Union Jack.

Doesn't it show that the statement from Canadian sources that "the Union Jack is good enough for us," is incorrect in that at Amsterdam the Union Jack was not considered good enough because it was not sufficiently distinctive?

Herein is a matter involving national and international relations. Is not perpetuation of the status quo highly undesirable?

Herein also is further proof that the majority of the people of Canada—as many of them think they now possess—a distinctive flag for Canada?

This incident emphasizes the truth that Canada cannot longer afford to be the only self-governing country in the world which does not possess a distinctive flag of its own.

In view of the facts, will any Canadian contend that the Union Jack alone is sufficient for all the uses for which Canada needs a flag? Certainly no non-Canadian will.

Will any Canadian say that there is not urgent demand for settlement of this question in which Canada's self-respect is closely involved?

A section of irreconcilables to precedents to "broadening down from precedent to precedent"—express their inferiority complex in assertions that what they choose to call "substitution" of a distinctive Canadian flag for the Union Jack would be regarded as a sign of Canadian disloyalty, and that the British Empire was about to break up.

Talk of substitution is ridiculous. The outside world varies between scorn and toleration of our gaucheries and inconsistency. If there be substitution proposed, has it not already taken place both unofficially and officially, as at Washington and London?

Have you not read or heard that in this project there is a base desire to weaken the Empire; to weaken the ties between it and Canada? Have you been urged to show your loyalty to Great Britain by resisting any scheme to change the Union Jack?

Does not this show that there is need for a new conception of loyalty, a loyalty of Canadians to Canada? That loyalty, in its best expression, cannot be other than a loyalty to the British connection and Canada's proud place as the premier Dominion of the British Empire.

Have we forgotten already Lord Darling's words when last in Canada? "The strength of the British Empire lies in the strict independence of its component parts; in its apparent weakness."

There is no question of loyalty involved in any way. The Union Jack is as much our flag as it is that of the British Islanders of the present day. It was our fathers' flag just as it was their fathers' flag. The elder stay-at-home son succeeds to the family firm's title and trademark. The young sons abroad use that trademark, differentiated by a distinctive address.

The daughters of a family do not forever carry their mother's name alone on their visiting cards. When they grow up, their own names appear thereon. As the eldest Miss Britain, it is not contemplated that Canada will change her name or leave the family, but it is surely time that her own visiting cards were properly engraved.

Other critics of the proposal to put this flag question in order are of the "hush, hush" type. What has Canada to fear within or without?

You may say, "We do not want an agitation in Canada such as that in South Africa." We all agree. Perhaps we do not all recognize that the longer this matter is left in abeyance, the greater is the probability of acrimonious dispute. Conditions here are not the same as in South Africa. Our fellow Canadians of French descent may be relied on to discuss this matter as Canadians, conscious of the history of our country and loyal subjects of the British Crown.

Already they have given some proof of their agreement with the principle of adopting a distinctive flag for Canada, one which includes the Union Jack.

Far from being a cause of disunity and disagreement, the adoption of a distinctive Dominion flag for Canada will be one of the greatest contributory causes to the development of a national consciousness and pride in Canada and her connection with the British Empire.

It will give to all classes, races and people in Canada a symbol of unity as Canadians. At present we have no officially adopted distinctive flag to which the son of a long line of French or British Canadian ancestors, the son of the immigrant from England or Ireland or Galicia, can look as the flag and symbol of his own country, and of his country alone.

Abroad, a distinctive Canadian flag would designate Canada, Canadian institutions, and Canadian people.

Its adoption would end the ridicule which Canada's present attitude invites, and prevent embarrassment to Canada's friends.

Embassies and government buildings abroad would then fly this flag without need of special orders-incumbent.

Exhibitors of Canadian commerce and trade would be properly distinguished by a Dominion flag. Much valuable publicity has in the past been

WANT 1929 CROP

Many Farmers Will Take Advantage of 2 Cent Storage Clause.

There is said to be very keen competition among grain men to obtain as much of the 1929 wheat crop as possible. Farmers with big acreages and big yields are receiving good offers to deliver their wheat. Heavy deliveries are being made at the Pool elevators and many are taking advantage of the 2 cents a bushel for farm storage.

An average of 175 carloads of wheat are being handled by the Dominion inspection department at Calgary. Wheat grades are high, averaging Nos. 1 and 2 Northern. About 3 per cent is tough.

On account of storage at the coast being taxed to the limits, passage of grain through Calgary is being slowed up. Grain is already entering the government elevator on the permit system, 100 cars daily. Little is being shipped east, and west deliveries are being made as fast as the grain can be accommodated at the coast.

The following is told of Winston Churchill when working at the Admiralty. An American journalist was granted an interview. "I've turned down seven of your compatriots this morning," exclaimed Winston, nodding toward a pile of visiting cards. "I know. I'm them!" replied the American.—Montreal Star.

A certain Anglican Bishop was buying a horse and the horse dealer was cautioned not to swear on any account and if possible to quote scripture, so as to create a good impression. In reply to the Bishop's query if the horse was sound, he said piously "Yes Me Lord, sound in his hock, his ass and everything that is his."

THE BIGGEST YET

Associated Well Came In With Flow
of 27,000,000 Cubic Feet

Another big well was brought in on Saturday afternoon in Turner Valley by the Associated well No. 1. This well is in the southern part of the Valley in the Home section and not far from Lowery, Calmont and Hargar wells. These as well as other wells will be indirectly affected by the strike. It is said United Oils, A.
P. Con. and Imperial Oil will get a 12 1/2 per cent royalty on the production. The strike at the Associated well came rather as a surprise, since the drillers have been working for some time sidetracking and quite recently started cleaning out the well preparatory to putting in another whipstock, stated Mr. McLeod.

When the first whipstock was fished out of the hole, it was found that the cement had not set since it had been put in some time ago, and therefore it was decided to go into the hole and bail out some of the mud below. A considerable amount of the mud had been bailed out when the drillers realized that there was a strong flow of gas coming.

This well was drilled to a depth of 5410 feet and about 222 feet in the lime some weeks ago when the bit stuck at the bottom of the hole and drillers were forced to stop making new hole. It was anticipated at the time that there was a considerable flow of gas some depth in the lime, but the mud pressure on the rotary pumps held it back while drilling was in progress and then later it apparently choked itself off and remained so while all the side-tracking and fishing for the old rods was in progress.

An official measurement of the wet
gas flow from the Associated well, which blew into production Saturday afternoon, was taken Sunday and stated to be 27,000,000 cubic feet. On Saturday night J. H. McLeod, production manager of the Imperial Oil Company, gave a conservative estimate of 20,000,000 cubic feet.

In view of the fact that the initial flow from Home No. 1 was only 19, 000,000 cubic feet, and with that flow produced more than 900 barrels of naphtha within 24 hours, it is believed that the Associated well is good for 700 or 800 barrels of naphtha daily.

At precisely what depth the gas flow is coming from is not known, but it would appear to be some distance above the stuck bit. The bit and several feet of drill rods still remain in the hole, but to tools are known to be between the present gas horizon and the top of the hole. Two strings are in the hole at Royalite No. 4 and they have not interfered with the production which the well has yielded for years.

advantages in size and weight and

The consensus of opinion is that the fight card was one of the best and the main bout was about the closest pugilistic fans of Vulcan have seen in a long time, and everyone was unanimous that the class of entertainment given them would be hard to excel anywhere. The promoters are again to be congratulated and with a sufficient increase in attendance there is promise that there will be more promotions. Entire satisfaction was given by the several officials who were:
Clare Kimball, referee of main bout;
Billy Trevannon, referee of preliminaries; Mayor Butchart, timekeeper, and Everett McPherson, announcer.

TALKED TO EDITORS

Optimistic Viewpoint Coupled With Sanity Urged by Premier Brownlee

In his address to the newspaper men of Alberta at Edmonton on Thursday last, Premier Brownlee drew the attention of newspaper men to the various aspects of the economic state of the province, pointing out where they could rightly use their voice in clarifying public opinion. The speaker remarked that the year now closing was one that had brought a great deal of apprehension. He hated to be a pessimist and also disliked to assume the role of extreme optimist.
He liked to look at things sanely and face facts squarely. He hoped the time would come when the development of the natural resources of the province would relieve them of the necessity of relying upon the crop situation in relation to the welfare of the province. The crop situation is not so good as they could wish, yet it is not so bad as it looked, say six weeks ago. The question arises what will the next few years bring us, good or bad years. The premier made reference to the dangerous condition that prevailed when his government took power, when they were asked to curtail most useful and important business of the government. Fortunately they carried on and with good crops, optimism crept into the situation.

"I have never been in a more optimistic frame of mind than tonight," declared the Premier. "I will ask you to take a backward view of the situation of the province, and will encourage or show you how to combat the same."

First of all, he pointed out, there was the economic change in the situation of the farmer brought about by the co-operative marketing of his products. He would not attempt to argue with them the matter of prices received, but the economic situation was sounder for the reason that the farmer was living and operating upon the crop that was past and not the one to come. The farmer could say that this year's crop was taken off and paid for by last year's crop and was therefore pure gold. It meant they were now in a better position to stand poor harvests for two or three years than could ever have been done before, and it was why he refused to be either a pessimist or optimist, and only to regard the situation as temporary. Secondly, the Premier pointed out they had recovered from the effects of boom days, and having experienced their lessons, they did not fear any collapse of real estate values whether in city or country, nor any inflation of prices. Therefore, they stood upon an economic structure where they could look with a cheerful face upon matters, which could not be done a few years ago. Alberta was in a better state financially than ever before, and could look into the future with assurance as great as any part of the dominion.

In conclusion the Premier begged the editors to use their best efforts to create a love of beauty in their respective communities, contending that it was of vital importance and of economic value, inasmuch that a house and barn painted and kept in order was of more value than an unpainted structure. He stated that the government was ready to give all possible assistance, and in one direction had taken steps to create permanent auto camps along highways, to set aside park areas in the west and three in the east of the province.

OIL NEWS

Alberta's prosperity is indicated in recently-issued income tax returns.
The Province showed an advance of a half million over 1928. Oil operations and generally good business conditions contributed to making the figures larger than ever before.

A heavy flow of gas estimated at 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas was struck on Friday last near Oyen. The well is down at a depth of 3135 feet.
This will prove of immense value if the problem of supplying gas to towns in Saskatchewan and Manitoba is undertaken.
